About 01 Magazine

01 Magazine is an independently owned arts and culture online magazine that encompasses contemporary art, photography, and fashion with a focus on emerging and established artists.

01 Magazine is based in Vancouver, Canada and is published online bi-monthly.

The “01” Group Exhibition is an extension of the magazine, featuring works by artists and who have inspired us in their craft.

About 107 Shaw Gallery

107 Shaw Gallery is an independent art gallery focused on building the emerging art scene in Toronto.

PARTICIPATING ARTISTS

Peter Sutherland, New York

Peter Sutherland's work employs some of the techniques of traditional documentary photography to capture the hidden beauty of ordinary objects and everyday situations. Sutherland has released several books, most recently "Even in the End" (Gottlund Verlag). He has shown work in galleries internationally and is represented by ATM Gallery in NYC.

Leo Fitzpatrick, New York

Leo Fitzpatrick is an American artist, actor and DJ living in New York City.

Sam Falls, Brooklyn

Sam Falls was born in San Diego (1984) and raised primarily in Vermont. He graduated from Reed College in Portland, Oregon and is currently finishing his MFA at ICP-Bard in New York. He has several self-published books out now and Color Dying Light recently published by Hassla. Upcoming is a solo show at Capricious Space in June, and a monograph with Lay Flat, out Summer 2010.

Jason Dill, New York

Chronic masturbator Jason Dill is an American photographer living in New York City. He is also a recovering addict and alcoholic. His photography only being published a handful of times, makes one wonder why anyone would want to exhibit his work. It's juvenile, simplistic, unknown and vulgar... at best.

Bree Apperley, Brooklyn

Bree Apperley is thinking that maybe she is a graphic artist. Very much interested in the brave new world of internet connections and the old world of make and do, she tries to forge unexpected creations that touch upon these both. Born in Regina, Saskatchewan, Canada, Bree holds a degree in both fine art and design.

Alexander Binder, Stuttgart

Alexander Binder was born on Halloween night 1976 in the Black Forest/Germany. He is a self-taught photographer and has a degree in economics. Both – his photo and his film projects – are characterized by a fascination for the mystic, the spiritual and the occult. Alexander grew up in a rural area shaped by the fairy tales of Wilhelm Hauff and the Brothers Grimm. This early contact with mythical creatures made him spend the whole puberty in the local video store, watching a surreal mélange of science-fiction- and horror-movies.

His production process combines digital recording technology with self-built lenses and creates a blurred, diffuse and somewhat psychedelic look.

Becky Brisco, Vancouver

Taking her experience in industrial design, textile arts and fashion design overseas, Becky travelled to the Netherlands to take part in an internship with Dutch designer Marcel Wanders, after which she returned to Vancouver BC to complete her degree in Industrial Design. Becky looks for inspiration in unexpected places and finds pleasure in discovering magic in seemingly ordinary places. Becky resides in Vancouver and continues to make things.

Coley Brown, New York

Coley Brown was born in 1987 in Louisiana. He moved to NYC at 19 and after a two years of traveling the USA and assisting photographers such as Ryan McGinley, he released his first monograph entitled "Jam Jelly Honey Wild Rice". Brown's work is the result of constant traveling and exploration of the world around him. He recently had his first solo show in Osaka, Japan in 2009.

Maryanne Casasanta, Toronto

Maryanne Casasanta's work contemplates the exchange between art and commonplace. By offering a glimpse into the inner life of every day objects, her personal living environment is transformed through an ongoing process of recording and annotating space. Her work explores a dichotomous relationship between interior and exterior surroundings. Without intervening, she seeks to observe and archive the ephemeral found in natural environments. Maryanne lives and works in Toronto.

Nicholas Haggard, Brooklyn

Originally from California, Nicholas Haggard currently lives in New York and works with the picture agency, Tinker Street. His works are personal documentaries that establish loose narratives with some of the people he feels most connected to.

nicholashaggard.com

Steve Halo, New York

Steve Halo, known as just Halo (and not for the video game) for the most part. He enjoys taking pictures more or less for fun here and there, and his subject matter has no rhyme or reason to it. If you get a chance ask him about his "around the back" dribble in basketball or his "catch and shoot 3 pointer", it's priceless.

thehaloway.tumblr.com

Daniel Jackson, New York

Daniel Jackson is a founding member of global design collective Surface To Air and the Creative Director of BBlessing, the Lower East Side menswear boutique and clothing label.

surfacttoair.com

Bob Myaing, Philadelphia

Bob Myaing is a photographer living and working in the city of Philadelphia. His photographs look at the slightest hand of human presence, uninterested with a hierarchy of photographic importance the photographs simply offer a glimpse of the photographer's perception. Things appear simple in his photographs with sobering composition; centered within the frame and easily recognizable but woven with a sensitive presence of the photographer. Recurring themes of his work range from mass culture to the most principle photographic truth: the natural beauty of light.

bobmyaing.com

Jeff Otto O'Brien, Vancouver

Jeff Otto O'Brien is an artist based in Vancouver, Canada. His current practice is an examination of the synthetic moment that is created when a photographer makes a photograph and the context behind the chosen subject. An examination of these synthetic moments is coupled with an interest in psycho-geography and the relationship between the individual and the city and the influence on one another as reflected within the creation of the image. He holds an honours BA in Philosophy from the University of Victoria and his work has been shown in galleries in Canada and the United States as well as published in numerous publications both online and off.

Nathalee Paolinelli, Vancouver

I was 11 when I first became obsessed with making minimal type drawings. I remember driving down the road in the back of my parents gold bronco, looking out the window I saw these huge red balls gliding across the sky. The red and blue were ebullient and tangible. This experience and many others like it changed me. Slowly I'm learning how to release this art thing I have deep inside. My practice combines expressive abstract drawing, painting, collage and sculpture. I think of my work as a self-reflexive type thing, through which I try to understand my relationship to the world of forms and phenomena. This oscillation between the subconscious and conscious informs my paintings; as I work to strip things down through studies, reinterpreting color, surface, and structure.

Les Ramsay, Vancouver

Exploring past, present, and future situations of both physical and inanimate interaction, Vancouver artist Les Ramsay investigates places where composition and dialogue exist in limbo. He searches for a momentary space in time where an interaction has happened or where one may occur. Culled from his interests in the realm of the mundane, he strives towards achieving a formal platform in which to capture experimentations and conversations left to linger. Ramsay introduces a particular interaction of formal shape and color to grip these moments of transformation in mid air. Les Ramsay is a Vancouver based artist who's studio practice incorporates painting, sculpture, drawing, collage, photography, and print-making. He received a BFA in visual arts from the Emily Carr University, and has studied at the Universidad Politécnic de Valencia, Spain. His work has been exhibited in Canada, Spain, and the United States.

lesramsay.tumblr.com

Melinda Santillan, Montreal

Melinda Santillan is a Mexi-Canadian artist and t-shirt designer. Melinda shifts her art without boundaries and offers her audience a look into her dissenting spirit.
